There's a massive problem with the unlawful practice of unregistered social work occurring by so-called child protection agency employees in Ontario.

The former Registrar and CEO, Lise Betteridge issued an open letter about such on August 17, 2020.

As we both know, the mandate of the Ontario College of Social Workers and Social Service Workers (OCSWSSW) is to:

- 1) regulate the practice of social work
- 2) protect public interest
- 3) govern its members

It's my opinion that Lise Betteridge failed the OCSWSSW mandate by refusing to exercise section 54 of the Ontario Social Service and Social Service Worker Act. Section 54 provides power to the OCSWSSW to compel violators of the act to comply with the OCSWSSW mandate and its subsequent rules and policies. Lise Betteridge could and should have effectively regulated the practice of social work while protecting public interest by exercising section 54 of the act but, for whatever reason, failed to do so.

As the new Registrar and CEO of the OCSWSSW the Onus to fulfill the OCSWSSW mandate now rests on you. You have an urgent duty to ensure that ALL social workers and social service workers in Ontario are accountable to the law, especially unaccountable so-called child protection workers employed by unaccountable so-called child protection agencies!

Should you fail in fulfilling the mandate of the OCSWSSW you will demonstrate a wilful and wanton act of negligence, subsequently generating intentional emotional distress and, thus, causing harm to a particular demographic in Ontario while further denying a decent quality of life to that same demographic.

Within 30 I expect to see evidence that you've taken the steps to effectively address what has become a literal crisis for children in families in Ontario by exercising section 54 of the SWSSW act of Ontario!

You are personally liable for your actions under civil law. There is no sort of professional protection for you in this matter! If you do not uphold the OCSWSSW mandate you are liable to be sued in a personal capacity and I will personally sue you and the OCSWSSW, respectively, while assisting every single person who comes to me for advocacy services to do the same!

Enough is more than enough! The law applies to everyone and it's beyond time for the OCSWSSW to stop pandering to and protecting the criminal so-called child protection agencies in Ontario!

VERY SINCERELY

P.S. I've written an open letter to Lise Betteridge that I encourage you to view and pass along. The correspondence exchanged by Lise Betteridge and myself before Lise's retirement is also attached, for the record.
